Three Key Benefits from Arqray

An exhaust system's design offers a lot more to the owner than good looks. It provides much more than a great sound. A well-engineered exhaust system produces a measurable increase in performance. When an exhaust system offers all three of these benefits, it's truly worthy of its distinguished status and the vehicle-owners investment.

Arqray, the veteran designer and producer of high-quality, superior exhaust systems has engineered an exhaust system that provides measurable performance improvements while achieving peak levels of head-turning looks and vibrant sound.

Time Tested

For more than 30 years, Arqray has demanded the highest quality standards. Every system is carefully constructed in-house by Arqray's skilled craftsmen. Superior materials are utilized throughout the process.

Design and exceptional attention to detail are only part of the story. The unique characteristics that make an Arqray system superior also come from rigorous dyno and road course testing. Designed to strengthen the benefactor vehicle's characteristics, the Arqray exhaust system is already the standard in the Japanese tuning market for fine European and exotic vehicles. Now, it's your turn to learn why.

Performance and Quality in every detail

Brilliant exhaust system design exposes complex engineering concepts that improve a vehicles performance. Chosen by Asada Racing as the system for their BMW Z4M GT race car; the Argray system is track tested.

Superior Weight and Weld-Strength Qualities

Great engineering extends beyond performance to quality of construction. That engineering brilliance can be seen in the ideas incorporated into all Argray exhaust systems. The Argray system is TIG welded by hand, providing the greatest strength and durability. Superior grade materials and weight-reduction are utilized in the construction of the Argray system through the use of SUS304 stainless steel and JIC grade-certified TP340 titanium. Real reasons to have confidence in superior quality.

The vehicle-owners investment is worthy of the finest system available and Argray is the right choice.

Sound that gets Heard

What key element adds to the appeal of a great exhaust system beyond performance and durability? A unique, attention-grabbing sound. Arqray does not disappoint.

With its signature deep-bassy tones, the Arqray system provides the more aggressive tones of a U.S. spec'd system with the smooth and elegant, longer-trip compatibility of the JASMA spec. Most vehicle owners will find the sound produced by the Arqray system to be music to their ears.
